ABOUT ME

I am a passionate final-year engineering student eager to learn and used to working hard. I seek opportunities to further my experience and education by working in challenging and exciting environments. During my studies, I actively participated in numerous student projects, where I gained substantial experience in teamwork, software development, and the application of various technologies.

EDUCATION AND TRAINING

PROJECTS

Social Network

Overview

The DRS Social Network is a simulation project designed to mimic the functionalities of modern social networks. It includes features for user registration, authentication, friend management, and post creation with administrative oversight. The system is implemented with three core components:

1. User Interface (UI)
2. Service for Request and Data Processing (Engine)
3. Database (DB)

Key Technologies

- Frontend/UI: Angular, CSS, HTML, TypeScript
- Backend/Engine: Flask API Application with RESTful endpoints
- Database: MySQL
- Real-Time Communication: WebSocket for live updates
- Email Notifications: Automated email functionality for registration, notifications, and status updates.

Simulation of Infrastructure System

Overview

A WPF MVVM application that represents a service (NetworkService) for monitoring measured values over entities in the system.

NetworkService provides its users with a tabular representation of entities in the system, their layout on the Drag&Drop grid, and data display using graphs.

MeteringSimulator will send data at random times to the NetworkService application, with an indication of which entity it is forwarded to.

Key Technologies

- .NET Framework
- WPF (Windows Presentation Foundation)
- MVVM Design Pattern
- C# Programming Language
- DataBinding and Validation

Outage Management System

Overview

The Outage Management System (OMS) is a tool for managing faults and planned operations in an electrical distribution network. It tracks and records planned and unplanned interruptions to ensure efficient management and resolution.

Key Technologies

- Programming Language: .NET (C#)
- Database: XML-based storage
- Methodology: Agile/Scrum using Azure DevOps
- Architecture: Adheres to SOLID principles and Clean Architecture
- Testing: Comprehensive Unit Testing for reliability

Healthcare Information System

Overview

The Healthcare Information System is a web application simulating a healthcare management platform. It facilitates patient scheduling, doctor-patient interactions, and administrative operations in a medical center. The system supports multiple user roles with distinct functionalities and ensures efficient handling of healthcare processes.

Key Technologies

- Frontend: HTML, CSS, JavaScript
- Backend: .NET (C#)
- Data Storage: JSON, XML, CSV, TSV, or custom delimiter-separated files
- Version Control: Git (GitLab repository required)
- Design: Customizable CSS-based UI
